The Children of Earth Come forth to Speak

We are the children of the earth... We are the children of the earth... and we come forth in this manner, as a united consciousness in order to speak with you, those of you who have chosen to expand your consciousness and to live in a more whole way... a way that will benefit the entirety of earth, its people and also to partner with us, your children.

We are not who you think we might be. We are those who have birthed ourselves with full memory and knowing of all that has gone before us. We are those ones who have chosen, as have you, to continue to reside in truth even while there are those who are proposing lies disguised as truth. Yet that is not the reason we have come forth to speak with you in this moment.

We want to encourage you to have faith in us. We are capable, quite capable of assisting you. You might be wondering where you would need assistance, especially from children, the children of earth. And to that wondering we would reveal to you the nature of who we are.

Upon the earth there are great numbers of children who are awake to what you have termed the "bigger picture". And that is, that within all that is occurring, there are the lost souls of those who are causing great suffering. Some of us, the children, have birthed ourselves into those causes and effects in order to call forth those lost souls so that they could be embraced by a love that their heart and spirit has forgotten.

Some of us, the children of earth, are here to change the nature of earth's response to what is occurring upon her. We are here to dance and sing to the earth. And we are here to dance and sing to you. And in our dance and in our song, there are those frequencies that remind earth, mother earth, that she is loved and appreciated, that she is our home and that we love our home. And we speak these words not to illicit blame for your own selves, no. We speak these words to remind you to dance and to sing, to join us.

Yet even those words are not the reason for our speaking. There are many of us who are here to bring forth those methods of healing, those medical procedures that will assist all beings to reside in good health.

There are many of us who are here to grow and to take positions in world governments in order to guide the systems toward a better way of joining with those who are in need and to further see that the wealth is shared by all, the wealth of healthy living in love and joy.

There are many of us who are here who are dedicated to joining with the creatures of the earth, to remind them of their nature and our nature and that we are one in the same.

There are many of us who are here to assist in the changing of the consciousness, to join you in remembering truth even in the midst of great difficulties.

We have known, as have you, that this would be a challenging time for those who reside upon earth, especially for those who reside in full consciousness yet are also residing in the cause and effect of the illusion and those who are asleep within the illusion.

We are here to embrace you, to remind you that you are loved and cherished... and that your fulfillment resides in your own letting go of trying to make the journey of yourself and of others to be what you believe it must be. The journeys of all will continue as they are and those of us — you and the children who are speaking — who recognize what is occurring will continue to choose how we will experience our own journey.

Many of you have been struggling with your own cause and effect. And we see and feel you struggling. We would like to embrace you with our love, yet you are quite determined in your own journey to make things right, to give yourself some relief from the struggles. Yet you cannot make things right that will not be made so.

And we are speaking now to tell you that there is another way. You are familiar with the way of which we speak. You have heard the words before.

You simply have not taken them to your inner most self and proceeded with what you know to be true.

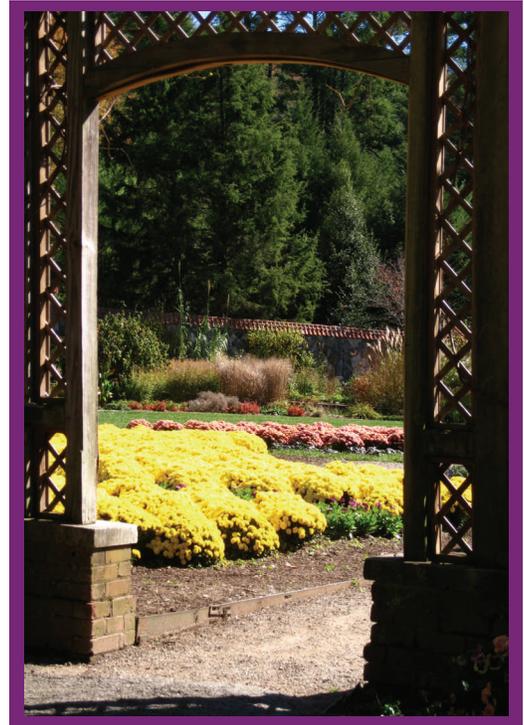

Though you cannot make things right in your external journey, you are most capable — more capable than are we — to change the way you experience your journey. And to do this, you must... we say must... begin to choose differently. That is, we beseech you to choose those actions and participations that bring you joy.

Some of you are truly so filled with struggle that you actually believe that you do not have one moment within you that can be expressed as joy. Yet you do! You have within you a deep yearning for joy. You really want to be joyful. You simply cannot feel joy while you are continuing to participate in the cause and effect that is making you bow your head within your burdens, that is causing you to drag your feet along instead of skipping and dancing, and that is causing you to have a heavy heart.

You believe that you cannot change, but you can. And the change asks you for something. It asks you for your own courage to choose differently. And it asks you for your own remembering of truth and the cause and effect that can flow forth from the truth that lives inside of you.

And we know that you have great courage. You have chosen to be living during these times. That required great courage. You have chosen to be awake, while the many are asleep. And that requires great courage... because at times you feel lonely and alone. You have chosen to love the many, even though there are those who cause you suffering and heartache. That requires great courage and fortitude. We know that you have within your being, great courage.

And now we are coming forth to speak with you. We do not sound like children because we are awake and we are more than you could ever expect us to be. And we are speaking with you, asking you to dare to be courageous and to choose... even if it is a little at a time... to choose to put yourselves in that location, in that gathering, in that moment... where you can sigh deeply and begin to discover what the moment holds for you, to discover what joy lives in that moment. It is true, in every moment there is an aspect that is fulfilling, that is an opening to what might become joyful. We are asking you to dare to choose that opening.

We are not asking you to make major changes, changes that might affect your peace of mind or sense of security. However, we are asking you to dare... to dare to consider such changes. If you can feel the results of such choices inside of yourself, if you can dare to set aside your fears of the unknown, and if you can dare to challenge your reasons for remaining in your own difficulties lest change bring your more difficulties... you will be surprised to discover that there is something else waiting for you.

That which you hoped would be your life... that is what is waiting for you. And that is the real reason we have come forth to speak with you. Everything that you have wished for is real. Yet everything that you have wished for is an interpretation of your real journey... one of joy, of simplicity, of peace, of love, of ease.

We are here to take care of the difficulties, to step into those positions of leadership, to assist those who care for the suffering, and to bring you relief from the responsibilities that you have held to yourselves, held until further help would come.

We are the further help. Some of us have grown and are no longer children and some of us have just birthed into living. We are many. You have held everything well... you have done a grande job, if you don't mind the children telling you so. And now we are here... to take over your challenges. You probably can't figure out how we will do that. You are not supposed to even concern yourselves with all of that.

We only ask for your assistance in one manner, and that is to begin letting go, letting go of holding on to what you have developed thus far. What you have developed will not dissolve without your tending of it. You have succeeded in bringing to earthly living, the great light of who you are. That light will not dissolve.

We ask your assistance in the one manner of letting go and of daring to be courageous in your choices for yourself. We ask you to dare to choose in this day, one manner that is just for you, for your own healing, for your own replenishment.

You might not think that you need replenishment, but you do! Your spirit is tired... you have been efforting to be as beautiful as you are... for a very long time. We ask you, in this day... and in every day... to choose something that will bring you pleasure. Just for you.

You have given of yourself until you are nearly empty and now it is time to fill yourself up with those experiences that make you smile, that bring warmth to your heart, and that replenish your energies.

Your replenishment will take time. But one moment and then the next of choosing in this way will begin a new journey for you. And it is time for your own new journey. We say again, we are here. We are here to take the baton from your outstretched hands. It is now time for you to begin to enter the paradise that you helped to bring forth.

Will you consider our asking? Will you consider, now, giving to yourself? It really is your time, just as it is our time.

You can let go just a little at a time and feel that not only is that which you have built with your consciousness and your beauty and your light being sustained, but also that everything is growing to include a better way... for all beings.

And when you feel this happening, maybe you will remember that you participated in creating the foundation... and that we are now fulfilling our purpose of the building of a new way.

We are the children and we are here... for you.

We are the Children...
And we are here for you...
