We are Your Loving Caretakers...

Beloved Beings! Greetings to you!

It is a great pleasure to be speaking with you in this manner. For, there resides within the heart of your being those wonderings which ask the simple question, when will this all end? When will the movement begin? When will we actually step into a new way of living, of being where we will rejoice at being with those who are centered in love and peace? When?

And it is to that which resides within your heart's questioning that we do speak in this manner.

Though many have struggled, and though many feel as though they are what is called on-hold, the truth remains that you are rising – now – as a great phoenix, from the dust of that which has been.

And while the external world continues to give you the impression that you are still residing in the burning of the old and the waiting for the new, the Truth remains that within you and within the Truth of who you are, there resides a great force, a great power.

And you are breathing forth that power, that Truth, that Truth which says that the natural rhythm of the taking of form and the releasing of form begs to be made manifest; and it is within your yearning and your questioning that there flows forth the pathway. What pathway?

Hear these words! As you feel as though you are on-hold, as you wonder when the movement will bring you to the fruition of your dreams, your inner beauty flows forth upon your yearning for Truth to be made manifest. And it is your yearning that IS the pathway for the essence of Truth to flow forth.

What you are seeing, what you are experiencing as you view objectively the cause and effect made manifest upon the earth... is what is called the end times. We do not speak those words to incite within you a feeling of what you call doomsday or disaster. More so, we speak those words to reassure you that that which has been insanity is at the end of its cycle.

From the beginning of insanity's birthing, there have been cycles after cycles, which incubate the distortion and its breeding of that which has been called hatred and its justified movements. You have perished, you have birthed again and again, and you have continued to bring with you that Light of lights. You have succeeded.

Do you hear those words? Do you receive those words? You have succeeded. You have successfully anchored within the deep sleep state those vibrations of Truth which harbor peace and love. Do you see?

Again and again have you resided upon earth, during times of great difficulties, great sweepings of hatred, and now great rising and falling of insanity's panicked struggle to maintain itself in the face of those who stand firm in their own integrity of being, in the face of those who refuse to participate within the battles, whether they be physical or energetic.

Again we say to you, as we have countless times, you are amazing beings! If you could imagine a great warrior with the strength of ten thousand within his or her being, you would know that none other could battle as that one can. In a like manner, if you would imagine a great Light residing within a being so determined to maintain the integrity of the Light that he or she has actually become the Light, then you would know that none other could seat such Light into the darkness of despair and the distortion of the illusion of separation from the whole.

That is you. You are those beings who have determined, again and again, lifetime after lifetime, that you would hold firm to that which you are, that you would refuse to allow anything to question or distort the integrity of your expression of Great Light.

Perhaps you will reflect upon those words? And these: you have succeeded.

And though the words "upon your yearning" may appear to be quite insignificant, the Truth remains that upon your yearning flows forth the Truth that has been held within your Light. And as that Truth flows forth, nothing... nothing that is of the distortion and untruth can be maintained before it.

The Truth that flows forth is a great river that envelopes all in its path, embraces all in its path, and transforms all in its path. How? How does this occur? You may be surprised with our answer, with the answer.

The Truth transforms all in its path by merging with all, merging with even that which is distortion and untruth. What occurs with such merging?

Hear these words! Just as Truth and its expanding within your conscious knowing brings to you peace, brings to you love, brings to you a deep soul sigh of relief from battle's storm; so does Truth merge with all that is distorted to return it to its pristine nature, to its wholeness of being. We ask you to reflect upon those words.

What occurs externally? What can you expect externally? In this manner do we answer those questions.

As Truth flows forth upon the pathway of your yearning of Love and Peace to be made manifest in all ways, those mergings with the untruth, those mergings with the distortion and those mergings with the illusion of separation from the whole... cause within such mergings, a great surge in energies. What is the surge? What are the energies?

The energies are actually the releasing of distortion from its grasp upon physicality. The surge in energies is actually distortion's efforting to maintain itself.

In what you call the past, such efforting has allowed the distortion, illusion and untruth to continue to reside and maintain its grasp upon the suffering masses, such suffering being the elixir of its existence.

Yet now, our beloved beings, we say to you: The distortion will not be able to maintain, will no long be able to shore up the dissolving integrity of its own self. And the suffering masses are now and will continue to breathe deeply of the new elixir... that of freedom from the illusion and continued distortion.

Oh our beloved ones, hear these words! Fear not! And do not speak of these words to others who will begin to fear. Hold these words to your own being. If you are receiving these words, you are of those ones who are now and have been holding the Light of lights as your own being.

You will not be asked to struggle to hold your Light, as you might conclude. No. You will simply be as you are... and you will feel, our beloved ones, you will feel relief, you will feel as if a slight breeze has blown its sweet kiss upon your brow, and you will feel that you can now rest within the Truth as it flows forth as itself.

And yes, when the distortion crumbles, will you sigh a great sigh of relief. And yes, you will see, you will know, you will celebrate Truth in all of its glorious manifesting.

And then, beloved ones, will you no longer seem to be as you have the phrase "on hold". And you will birth the final beauty of that which you are, you will birth yourself to your own self. And, beloved ones, the Ancient Ones will weep at your glory... at your beauty... at your fulfillment of purpose.

Evermore are you.

Then until we speak again, we would continue to reside with you and about you... always. We are your Loving Caretakers. So be it.
