

January 1, 2014, with Merlin!

Energetic, Continued Regeneration

Well now here we are at the beginning of what you call a new year! But what would you say if I were to remind you that this new year began long ago? Yes, my dears, this year which you are calling 2014 began before you entered into physicality. And what do I mean by those words? Let's talk.

Perhaps you have heard me — and others — speak of the truth that this is a grande time and the possibilities are greater than ever before. What possibilities? The possibility that there will be a continued shift in human consciousness! And rest assured that when that continues to occur and when the illusion of separation from the whole is threatened further, most wondrous things begin to occur. What are they?

You might have gotten caught up there with my words “when the illusion of separation from the whole is threatened”. You might have thought, “Oh oh, we are in trouble now.” But, my dears, you have already been in trouble. You know what that is all about, don't you? Of course.

You have successfully lifted yourselves up and out of survival. Yes, within your common journey, you began to hear the words and then to believe them... words that said that there really is no separation from the whole, that there cannot be, that such intimation that the illusion is truth began to become so very clear to your conscious awareness that... what? Well, my dears, much to your credit, you threatened that false belief. You threatened the illusion of separation from the whole and what happened? It dissolved before your eyes. You began to feel whole... and you began to recognize that everything was not only part of you, but that you were everything, that you and all beings and creatures and nature and whatever else was floating around in your realm... was all you and you were it.

You have a phrase that I do so enjoy. It is this: it blew your mind. And yes it did. When you began to become more and more clear about this wholeness of being thing, you also continued to let go of survival. Perhaps a more correct way of stating that circumstance and success would be that your vibrational frequencies became more in perfect alignment with truth... and survival began to fall away... because it was no match to who you were becoming. Now wasn't that just nifty? You bet it was.

So we can together conclude that you are all experts in dealing with threatening the illusion of separation from the whole. You do it with every conscious breath. That having been accomplished, let's talk about this year and all that you knew so very long ago in your keeping of time.

In all of the histories of the great religions and spiritual teachings, there resides a hint of great beings coming to earth, taking form and maintaining their most expanded consciousness. Some have called this God consciousness. You can call it whatever you want simply because there is not an importance to the name. What is important is that there is a history lesson here. The history is that certain beings came to earth and maintained the true essence of Truth, incarnated that vibrational frequency, and then went forth to assist others to be uplifted from the density or darkness — your choice of words — so that Truth could reside incarnate. The primary purpose of this taking form was to breathe Light into the Darkness. Or, if you prefer different words, I would say that the primary purpose for the beings to come forth in this manner was to reach into the suffering masses and deliver them from that which caused their suffering.

And yes, you have read of some of these great beings and many of them have recognizable names and many of them remain unknown, though their fulfillment of purpose is most evident. And of course, if you have been paying attention, you are ready to hear that you... yes, you who receive these words... are of those beings. You came here to awaken — no small matter, but an experience that rippled through the patterns in physicality in order to deliver that pathway of awakening to the masses — and then to allow yourself to continue to awaken, to dare to let go of learned ways of being — and some learned ways seem to come with each awakening, much to your enjoyment and then to your displeasure when you realized that you were clutching to something that was continuing to change... at times in the moment.

Energetic, For the Love of the Children

Yes, my dears, you are of those ones who decided to come to earth and deliver into the darkness or the great illusion, that called truth. Truth, you also discovered, came in many forms as it flowed into the cause and effect of physicality. It took the form of love, of embracing, of reaching out, of caring for even those ones who were so very asleep and steeped in the illusion that they were causing great pain to the many; and you also discovered that the pathway of truth led you to a journey, a real journey into who you really were and are in this moment.

And now, in this moment, we are residing in this year of two thousand and fourteen. And the significance of this year, my dears, is that the fruition of many purposes is at hand. Many of those beings who have resided upon earth are still here, though others believe that stories that they have passed from physical. Actually, they will not... until all purposes are fulfilled. That has continued to be their choice, and they continue to manifest a refreshed and new physical embodiment.

Your choice remains within each and every incarnation. Yet if you reflect upon the past of this current lifetime, perhaps you can recognize that you have birthed yourself several times within it; that you emerged again and again from who you thought you were, and you discovered a new you. Some of you have called this phases of life, others call it a new facet of your totality of being, and still some simply say they are who they have always been. Again, the names and the expressions are unimportant. What is important to you personally is that this year and the transformation of the mass consciousness gives to you a most wondrous gift. What is it?

Well hold on to your hats, my dear friends! Hold on to your hats! The wondrous gift that comes to you during your journey through this year is that everything... yes, everything... becomes easier and easier and easier. Where you have experienced struggle, you can and perhaps will choose to let go of the struggle and discover that the natural unfoldment is at hand and it is much better than what you were trying to make manifest. Isn't that a real treat?

Energetic, Wholeness of One

In addition, there comes to you those ones who will invite you to participate in new adventures. Initially you might decline the invitation simply because you have, in your slang vocabulary, had enough. You want to rest for a time, to enjoy the peace. And of course you can... yet I am here to encourage you to accept the new invitations to go forth and explore new manners of being, and ...here is the kicker, as you have the phrase... you will begin to discover your true essence of being, the real you.

You might reflect on the question, how can you discover the real you, the you who is emerging from the dust of the past... while going forth in all of the familiar ways, the familiar journeys and activities? When you continue with the familiar, in a manner of speaking you are at times sleep-walking. You have an enjoyable time, you say hello to each other, you embrace each other... all wonderful manners of being. Yet. Yet.

When you enter into new explorations, you are more present than ever before. You must pay attention. A new exploration and experience requires more of your conscious awareness. And that!, my dears, is what this new phase is all about, this year is all about.

This year is all about staying awake, about causing yourself to let go of the olde ways through which you experienced who you were to your own self. This year is all about daring to again and again discover the real you. And it's not that yesterday or even last year you were a phony. No, of course not. You were who you were capable of being... within the frequencies that were able to be incarnate upon earth. And now, with the grande awakening gradually making itself known, the frequencies are different.

You have felt the difference, noticed the difference in large and small ways. You have continued to emerge from old patterns and expressions and now you are standing strong within the light of your own being. And that light wants to grow within your conscious awareness. And, my dears, you are most ready for more of your own light to enter into your consciousness.

♩ ♪ ♫

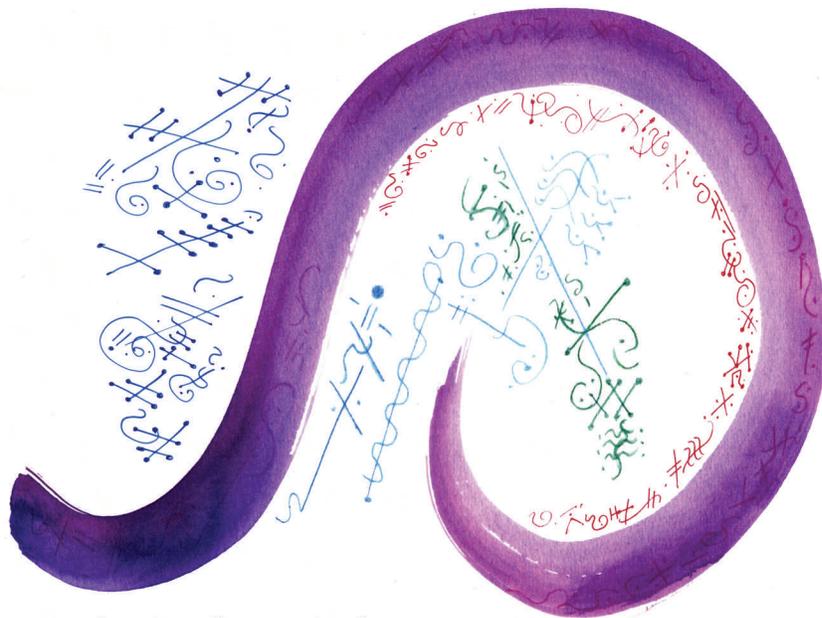

Energetic, Continued Balance, All Systems

Sometimes you actually become aware of truth by observing others. What is occurring then? You have projected your awakened awareness outward, taken a look and recognized something most lovely or wonderful that is occurring with other beings. Sometimes you recognize that you are the same as are they, recognize that you have projected yourself into the scenario so that you could become conscious of who you really are. And other times you find yourself wistful, wishing that you were like that. Ah! But that is the perfect time to remember that you are all one being. That what you recognize IS you.

Now it might seem that I have gone round and round with all of this, but I can assure you that while you were receiving these words that you have called forth, I have been assisting the alignment of your being. Oh nothing is by accident! We have planned this alignment long long ago. Here it is. Two thousand and fourteen. Your year. I can hardly wait to see what you allow to be made manifest, just for you, for your pleasure, for your delight, and for you ever-expanding inner peace!

It is always a pleasure to be speaking with you, my dears. Until we speak again, I am your friend, Merlin!

For Humanity ~ The Restoration of Innocence

www.prettyflower.us

Channeled
Energetics
from
The Beings
Of the Sea.