

*Your Channeled Reflection
for November, 2013*

Greetings! We are the Beings from other planets, both within and from without your solar system. And we come forth to speak with you in this manner for several reasons.

Our first and primary reason is to entreat you to continue to remain in the positive; that is, do not allow the circumstances of what is occurring on your planet to cause you to be depressed or emotionally drained. You are doing much more than you believe that you are. That is, you are upholding the vibrational frequency of your earth and those who are reaching out for help.

As many of your teachers have spoken, it is not your part to go and save all suffering beings from their own story, from their own journey. Yet when you are remaining hopeful, and more so, grateful for all the bounty that comes to you daily, you are actually placing into those reaching-out hands a solution. You needn't know the words of the solution itself, only that you are participating in a most powerful way.

When you reside within your daily participations, and when you hold within your heart the true knowing that all beings are as one being; you are then removing the false truths that have been perpetrated upon the innocence of the multitudes.

When you hold within your heart the love for all beings, even those who are so asleep that they must lie and cheat and steal and hurt others; you are then celebrating your own divine nature -- that nature that at times you place beyond your grasp.

The truth remains, however, that you cannot project your own divinity outward to live somewhere else until you are deserving. There is no such thing as deserving. You are comprised of those divine patterns, frequencies, and the essence of the life force itself.

And when you dare to allow your own innocence of being to come to the surface of your consciousness, when you dare to accept the invitation of spontaneous play, and when you allow yourself to not know the answer to everything, when you dare to allow yourself to continue to awaken to the all, the Truth of truths; then, oh beings of earth, are you becoming more of who you were always meant to be.

We have watched you develop. We have seen your struggles. And we have breathed a breath of peace within and about you. Why would we do this? We have much compassion for your journeys. You are most brave. You step forth into the unknown to discover the more -- the more expanded manner of knowing, the more rich and nourishing nature of your own divine love, the more of what resides about you in the form of nature which holds within it those secrets to the next phase of living upon earth, and the more of the totality of all beings as one being. Yes, you are most courageous and brave.

There are those of us who have journeyed far to come to observe the nature of the awakening that is occurring upon earth, as well as to observe the density of the illusion that seems to hold the majority of earth's population. We have discovered that it does not require a majority of your beingness to effect the whole and to lessen the density of the illusion.

And that is the second purpose for our speaking with you in this manner. When you gather together, in small and large gatherings, and you declare the purpose of the gathering to be one of peace, love and celebration of truth... you then, in that moment, become the saviors of earth.

Your action, with this intent, changes the nature of the vibrational frequencies of that illusion. The illusion and its density cannot maintain itself in the face of your lovely purposes and participations.

This is the truth.

There could be hundreds of thousands of beings who are trapped within the illusion, believing that it is truth and real; and when you gather in this manner which we have described, you affect those thousands.

It is as if your very breath causes a shimmer in the illusion. It is as if the very fabric of the illusion becomes less reliable to its own self. And, it is as if those who are of the hundreds of thousands have an opportunity to dare to hope, but more so, to dare to take an action -- any action -- toward their own awakening.

Their daring and then their action creates yet another pathway upon which they can traverse toward freedom, freedom from despair, from the victimhood that others depend upon in order to harvest the energies of the suffering, and they can traverse toward the truth, which you hold within the very fabric of your being.

And you might, at times, wonder why you are an awakened one and not the suffering one. You might at times wonder why you did journey forth from your own suffering, to emerge and journey upon a new path, within a new consciousness.

The answer is this. You have all lived many lifetimes as not only awake beings, but more so, you are the ancient ones. Yes, the ancient ones whom you believe hold the great truths and teachings of the ages. You are they. We will say those words again: you are the ancient ones who have chosen to be incarnate during these times of tremendous challenge and change.

You have, perhaps, heard those words before; yet we deliberately speak them to you. It is now time for you to become aware of who you really are. And in your awakening to the truth of your very own selves, you will then be entering a new phase of your living upon earth. Many have called this the emergence into the fourth dimension... incarnate. Those words are close to a correct description of what is occurring.

We would add these words. There is an emergence that is occurring. Yes, it is your emergence from you who have known yourselves to be, an emergence from who you have been. Also, it is the emergence of your earth from a time wherein she was as if held captive by the belief systems that, for a time, strengthened her grid and the manner within which she did form and relate to those who reside upon and within her being.

Now, your earth emerges from such beliefs and, like you, stretches her own self, her own energies... to discover the more of who she is. Within your earth are the same divine energies and frequencies, the same life force, and the same participation with creation itself. With this new emergence, you will have the opportunity to participate with nature in a way that will be nourishing for not only yourself, for earth, but also for the entirety of what you call humanity.

We hold our purpose to remain near, not only observing, but also assisting in every possible manner. We have assisted previously, when there were those who threatened the very survival of all beings an of earth, threatened with the power of bombs. We and several others from other realms, held such an occurrence at bay, so to speak, and also caused what is called the firing nature of those bombs to refuse to be activated. This, however, is the only way that we have interfered with earth's journey and the journey of those who reside upon and within her. We will continue to fulfill this purpose.

You might be wondering why we are doing these things, why we are about you. The answer is that you who are now awake and emerging from who you have been, not only invited us here, but beseeched us to come forth to assist you. There are some of you who "saw" into what you call the future and called us forth to enter into an agreement, an agreement which we joyfully and gladly accepted. It was to do exactly what we have been doing: to prevent the destruction of earth and its inhabitants.

You see, we could not come forth unless we received an invitation; and it was your invitation that delivered to us a pathway to assure you an opportunity to enter into the next phase of your journey... incarnate.

Do you know that this is the third earth? And because it is the third earth, we are intending to protect her -- and you -- from destruction. We are also here to do something else. We are here to assist you to remain within your vibrational frequencies of love, of peace, of joy, and of choice to reside within the knowing that all beings are one being.

We believe that we have spoken all that we came forth to speak. We are grateful to this vessel who has been willing to receive our words and then to deliver them to you.

We are also grateful for you... and all that you do. Remember to love everyone. And if you cannot bring yourself to love a certain being, then we beseech you to not hurt that being in any way.

You are growing and changing. You are ancient ones and you are babies, beings who are re-establishing your innocence of being... so that you can be the beautiful being you have always been... yet now you are asking of yourself to be conscious of that you.

Then we breathe a breath of love and gratitude for your presence upon your earth, as does your earth vibrate in gratitude for your presence upon her being.

Until we speak again, we would now be complete and release this speaking.
