

Your Reflection for October with the Divine Mother

Greetings my beloved children. Greetings to your heart and your mind and the beauty of that which you are incarnate. I am your Divine Mother and come forth to speak with you during the times upon earth that have become most trying. Perhaps you are already battle-weary even if you are not residing in the midst of the wars that have been occurring for such a very long time upon your earth. I come forth to give you an uplifting so that you can continue within your journey of discovery of who you truly are.

For, there comes forth those beings who have been residing upon earth for a very long time, cycle after cycle, lifetime after lifetime. And those beings hold within themselves a great light filled with truth and the absence of the illusion of separation from the whole. My dear ones, you are those beings. I speak with you now.

You are here for a reason and perhaps you have been told through other speakings and perhaps also through your own inner knowing that the reason is to uplift the spirit and wholeness of humanity. And again, perhaps that is true. Yet I come forth in this day, in this moment, in this breath to tell of something different. You are here to discover how to love not only yourself, but also to love those who are so very seemingly different from you that you find it difficult to understand how they can be and how they can be doing what they are doing. This is the challenge, isn't it, my dear ones. It is a challenge of the illusion.

For the illusion tells all beings incarnate that they are so very separate from each other, that they are lost and are trying to find their way home. This is an untruth. Yet it is the nature of physicality's message to all, even to those who you have difficulty accepting as they are. You see, you have never been lost. You are always residing in the heart of my being. You have journeyed forth to explore that which you are, the love in my heart, in an incarnate form. There is nothing about you that is unholy. Yes, you have learned to judge yourself and others because you and they are not perfect, do not measure up to what you have been told or learned or decided within yourself would be the holy being, would be the spiritual pathwalker. Yet I say to you and all beings, you are already that which you wish yourselves to be.

This is the nature of physicality. It leads you to believe that you are not fulfilled and that you must do something, something that you figure out or something that you hear from others, something that will make you more perfect. Yet I say again, physicality is by its very nature, imperfect. Why? Because it resides in the illusion of the separation from the whole. Now this does not mean that your journey in physicality is for naught. It does mean that within your journey, you have this great wondrous opportunity to discover the true nature of your being, to discover that you are so very perfect as you are.

You have heard the words many times “part of the whole” and although you are not a part but are the whole, still your presence in physicality is part of the whole presence. The whole presence in physicality gives to you many different manifestations of the journey that all beings reside upon. Within this journey you are as all beings, stepping in the moment, breathing in this moment, and loving in this moment. You have also heard the words, love yourself first. Yet I say to you, firstly is the knowing that you are love itself, that you reside within the heart of your Divine Mother. My heart is your home.

I wish you to take this moment, right in this moment as you receive the words of your Divine Mother, and pause... breathe deeply... and find that moment within your being... deep within your being... that moment that gives you peace. I invite you to participate with me in this now. For, if not now, then when?

You see, this inner peace is the core of your very being. It is the core of the truth of who you are. Within peace resides the moment of creation itself. And your thinking mind perhaps will not find that to be compatible with all of the beliefs that you have so carefully decided to keep. Yet it is the truth

Then, pause for a moment, breathe deeply, and set aside all else. Set aside your concerns for anything and everything and in this moment called eternity, reside with me, your Divine Mother, and feel the love that I now flow forth to you... right now. Close your eyes, breathe deeply, and open your heart to the love that I am breathing forth to that of you that is incarnate.

You are a most glorious being, each and every one of you. You have developed to be amazing beings, those beings who came to earth to breathe forth and to radiate forth truth to all corners of the earthly residing and further, to all that is in physicality's creation of itself. You are those ones. You are the teachers, the holy ones, the ancient ones, the workers, the suffering, the emerging from suffering, the giving and the taking, the receiving and the refusal to receive, the loving and the hating, the peace and the war... for all reside within that moment of eternity. When you release your focus on any of those descriptions of yourself and reside in this moment with me, then you are totality.

Totality gives to all beings that moment of awakening. The moment of awakening holds within it the relief from reaching forth, from striving, from efforting. Totality gives to you and to all beings the opportunity to know beyond physicality, that wholeness of being is your very breath. Nothing is missing from you. There is no such thing as a spirit being missing anything within him or herself.

Pause now and receive my love as it flows forth to that of you that is incarnate in physicality. You are brave, you are strong, you are holy. Ancient steppings are now your current steppings. Feel the strength from your own ancient steppings of long long ago. You are so very much more than that which your human nature, your vessel, allows you to know. Yet within your spirit, you are all that I have spoken and so very much more.

I am with you always. Dare. Dare to know this to be true. Dare to breathe my love to you, breathe it into your spirit, into your physicality, into your healing needs, and into the journey itself. You can do this. It is who you are and who you have always been. You are the lovers of humanity's emerging, emerging from suffering and birthing into paradise, paradise that resides within the spirit of your being. You are not reaching for paradise. My dear ones, you are evolving to know that you are paradise.

I am so very proud of all that you have discovered and all that you are being. Even when you are not happy with who you are to your own self, I am most rejoicing for who you are... I rejoice for who you are always. You are the flowing forth from the heart of my being. No other description of that which you are can be greater.

Then my dear ones, until I speak again, I am your Divine Mother, loving you more than your human nature can possibly conceive, yet loving you always, always, always.

So be it.
