

Reflection for November 2025 with Teacher

Greetings lovely beings! I am Teacher and I come forth for our usual chat! You see, when we come together in this manner, we are deciding that peace is not only worthwhile but is your choice and your divine right. Now in this time upon earth, it seems that there is more chaos than peace, but that is the illusion, my dears. So let's chat about that a little.

Let's begin by using a common example. It is this. Perhaps you are visiting family or friends and you observe two who are talking together. Now by their body language, you might interpret that they are either happy, angry, or any other possibility. Later, when you are at home, perhaps you think about them according to your interpretation and what you saw. You might even talk with someone about it if you are concerned.

Now what happens next? When you have the opportunity to be with one of those you observed, perhaps you ask how things are going, hoping that you will learn that all is well. And the persons tells you about a conversation at the family gathering that was about a new movie and that the discussion was a type of acting out part of the movie. You also perhaps don't say anything about your interpretation, but inside you are relieved that in truth, all is well.

Now what happened? It is not a crime to interpret or to become concerned. Yet if we reflect a moment about that example, we can see that we actually created an illusion and then gave it energy. Again, not a crime but a tap on the shoulder to pay attention to when we are doing just that, interpreting something that we know nothing about. We think we do, but we don't.

Now that is what is happening with the chaos upon earth and within the hearts and minds of some or perhaps most of humanity. There has been much given to the purpose of causing fear and then the returning to the sleep state so that what might happen will not affect us. Yet. Yes, yet, it is all an illusion. What is projected to cause fear is just that, a projection. And I, Teacher, am not ignoring the very real threats to survival of many beings in different locations upon earth.

There's something that is truth and is not an illusion. It is that many beings are awake and holding light and truth within their consciousness. Many beings are choosing to radiate outward love and light. Many beings are refusing to accept that the horrors or bad news might not be true. Many beings, perhaps you, are deciding that they have a choice and the choice can be to hold peace within your being, to hold love within your being, and to refuse to allow that fear to control your journey, to refuse to allow fear to make your decisions for your spiritual unfoldment.

You are holy beings. You are light beings. You are the Ancient Ones now incarnate. I, Teacher, hold you in the highest light and frequency. Dare, my dears. Dare to be who you really are and refuse to accept that what is given either in the news or by interpretations, is reality. Your reality is peace. Hold it within your being. When you participate in your own journey in this manner, you are doing more for humanity as a whole, than you can imagine.

Pause for a moment in this day and bring yourself to peace, bring yourself then to love, and then allow yourself to sigh deeply and know that in this one moment, all is well.

I am Teacher and hold a great fondness for you.

Then perhaps we will chat again, for this chat is a most favorite time.

Until we do speak again, I believe we are complete.

Will you speak the words with me?

So be it.
